DESIGNING BRIGHTON COLLEGE

Many congratulations to Brighton College on being awarded The Sunday Times Independent School of the Decade.

We are very proud to have been working with Brighton College over these 10 years - transforming every area and space on the campus year by year. We have redesigned everything from listed historical spaces to the principle areas in the new extraordinary School of Science and Sport.

This creative continuity has meant we have been able to deliver a unique and distinctive look and feel for the Brighton College brand experience - for students, staff, parents and visitors.

As the school's creative directors and designers in residence - we have transformed existing and new visitor and hospitality areas, academic and student breakout spaces, heads' offices and meeting rooms, the historical dining hall and other on site campus cafes, the headmaster's dining suite and the senior common room. As well we have created completely new award winning student boarding houses and a whole series of common rooms for the various student houses.

Most recently we have worked with Dutch architects OMA on the main reception and breakout spaces of the extraordinary new School of Science and Sports.

A new way for a school to look...

Richard Cairns, headmaster of Brighton College hopes to turn out good human beings, not just clever ones.

Richard's challenge to us has been to transform and design the college helping him achieve this ambition for his pupils.

The result - an uncompromisingly stylish and non-institutional looking college that visually inspires and is comfortable and welcoming to learn and spend time in.

Student Common Rooms and Boarding Houses

We were thrilled to win the award for “Best Boarding House Accommodation” in the Annual Boarding Schools’ Association 2019.

This recognises the “design, sustainability and innovation” of our houses. Our spectacular co-educational boarding house, Alexander House, has most recently been redesigned, turning it into a second home for Sixth Form boarders. The award also celebrates our focus on the importance of communal spaces: each house has their own refurbished common room and boarders can use the Simon Smith Café in the evenings.

“Boarding and day houses are furnished to a level of comfort and style far beyond the norm.”
